Susan Wilson, Founder & CEO of The Judgment Group, Selected to Ernst & Young's 2009 Entrepreneurial Winning Women™

-Nine Winners Selected across the US -

Stevensville, MD (December 2, 2009) –The Judgment Group, the leader in purchasing, servicing and recovering unpaid court-ordered money judgments, announced today that Susan Wilson, the company's Founder & CEO, was one of nine female entrepreneurs selected to participate in the Ernst & Young Entrepreneurial Winning Women™ program designed to accelerate the growth of high-potential businesses founded by women entrepreneurs. The winners were selected from a competitive list of women entrepreneurs residing across the US by a diverse group of independent judges.

“Ernst & Young LLP created the annual Entrepreneurial Winning Women program to help successful women entrepreneurs realize the full potential they envision for their companies,” said Maria Pinelli, Strategic Growth Markets, Ernst & Young LLP. “Through the program, we aim to give outstanding female entrepreneurs targeted and customized knowledge and business insights as well as access to highly influential networks of investors, advisors, and top entrepreneurs to quickly accelerate the growth of their businesses.”

Dubbed by Forbes.com as one of the "Seven Get-Ahead Executive Retreats," Wilson enjoyed complementary participation at Ernst & Young's prestigious Strategic Growth Forum November 11-15th in Palm Springs, CA. More than 1,300 leaders of the nation's most successful market-leading companies, along with investors and advisors, gathered with exemplary entrepreneurs to discuss growth strategies and economic challenges.

“As a Certified Public Accountant and Internal Auditor, I can honestly say I should be anything but an entrepreneur,” said Wilson. “Yet here I am on my second successful startup. I was thirty in 2000 when the first company, a technology startup, was sold to Kinko's. In fact, I ran into our lead Ernst & Young partner at the event. We marveled at the amazing dotcom ride we miraculously survived. And while today's economy is far from ideal, endorsements from world-class companies including American Express, Fortune and now Ernst & Young has led The Judgment Group to double revenues while reducing expenses. As a result, 2009 has been another amazing ride that actually exceeded expectations.”
